Source4Teachers Expands to Virginia with Hampton City Schools Partnership:
Successfully Completes First Six Months with Substitute Teacher Fulfillment Rate Increase of Nearly 15 Percent

HAMPTON, VA (July 24, 2014) – Source4Teachers, a leading provider of educational managed service solutions for K through 12 school districts, recently partnered with Hampton City Schools, marking another milestone for the company as its first partnership in the state of Virginia. Source4Teachers will leverage its vast resources to recruit, hire, place and manage qualified substitute teachers within Hampton City Schools, which serves an estimated student population of 20,700 through 19 elementary schools, two Pre-K through eight schools, five middle schools and four high schools, as well as one early childhood education, and one gifted center.

"Source4Teachers' successful implementation of substitute Teacher services and increase in the fulfillment rate by nearly 15 percent demonstrates the quality of our Commitment to our Public Private Company partnership. Hampton City Schools personnel are great to work with, and our combined efforts provided Hampton City Administration visibility and accountability of the program with increased fulfillment of substitute teachers while realizing significant cost savings for the Hampton City Schools," said Andrew Hall, Chief Operating Officer, Source4Teachers. "Hampton City Schools has been a great initial client in Virginia, and we look forward to continuing to provide quality service as we look to expand throughout the state, We are invested with these schools to help build strong futures, by increasing efficiency for the schools, improving student productivity and providing significant financial savings – as well as creating new job opportunities for the local economy."

Recognized with several awards for its entrepreneurial vision and growth, Source4Teachers is a resource for schools districts as well as aspiring educators. Offering top-quality training, guidance, support and flexibility, Source4Teachers ensures that educational professionals succeed and provide their students with the best opportunities available. Through interactive training courses taught by seasoned educational professionals, employees learn the latest techniques in classroom and behavior management, how to handle difficult situations and engaging and instructing students across multiple grade and education levels.

Source4Teachers places more than 6,000 daily and long-term substitutes, paraprofessionals, and support staff in approximately 160 clients in four states. School districts retain control over the program while realizing considerable savings and increased operational efficiencies.
