Source4Teachers Announces Partnership with Westmoreland Intermediate Unit: Hiring Effort Underway for Educational Professionals

Westmoreland County, Pa. – Source4Teachers/MissionOne, a leading provider of educational staffing solutions for pre-K–12 school districts, recently partnered with the Westmoreland Intermediate Unit and is seeking substitute teachers, paraprofessionals and support staff interested in joining its growing team.

Through this partnership, Source4Teachers/MissionOne will recruit, hire, train, place and manage qualified school personnel within the Westmoreland Intermediate Unit.

“We’re excited to expand our services into Westmoreland County and provide both students and educational professionals with top-quality resources and support,” said J. Jeffrey Fox, CEO, Source4Teachers/MissionOne. “Through this new partnership, we’re providing cost-effective solutions and a seamless high-quality program to the school district while providing significant job opportunities to area residents.”

Source4Teachers/MissionOne offers flexibility, support, training and guidance to help educational professionals succeed, including offering interactive training courses instructed by seasoned professionals from the education industry. Employees learn the latest techniques in classroom and behavior management, handling difficult situations and engaging and instructing students across multiple grade levels.

Source4Teachers places more than 3,500 daily and long-term substitutes, paraprofessionals, and support staff in approximately 100 school districts in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. School districts retain control over the program while realizing considerable savings in pension contributions, cost of benefits and reduced costs for unemployment, workers’ compensation and liability insurance and increased operational efficiencies.
